schooling system

We, as I am a part of the schooling system, should think differently on the basis of history textbooks. They have a place in our American schooling system and they are a good way to share historical information to learning and upcoming students in America. The Textbooks also have smart authors; most have their master's degrees and doctorates in history. Though everything that has been mentioned has been only good things there are some flaws in the system that have to be mentioned when talking about school history textbooks.

History textbooks in specific have some faults. Some are biased toward a particular place in the country such as the North or the South. A good amount of textbooks don't talk about or don't talk enough about certain events in history, such as the Gulf of Tonkin Incident or the Philippine-American War. Another problem with Textbooks is that authors have to be smart but they don't necessarily have to be good people. These authors can shine more light on events in history that matter so little to today's world and leave out, or misinterpret, whole parts of history.

Comparing target and walmart

Comparing target and walmart

Target and Walmart are two completely different things when it comes to shopping. They may seem like very common stores. They sell the same things but different prices. Walmart has better prices on some things. Walmart is not as busy as Target is but Walmart has later hours. Walmart's hours (6am-11pm) and Target's hours (8am-10pm) and Walmart has way more self-checkouts compared to Target.

Target has wider aisles and less crowded shelves than Walmart but Walmart's store is way bigger when you compare to Target. A lot more people like to shop at Target more than Walmart. I rather shop at Target than Walmart. I think that they just have way more (no hate) that is just my opinion. Walmart's retail is at least five times bigger than its competitor Target so comparing the two stores everyone thinks that Target is better.

Instagram Vs. Twitter

Instagram is wonderful for their news reports and memes. People can share what is happening. Students can share things on Instagram with each other. Kids can share a lot of what is happening at home.

Twitter shares more jokes about news. The postings are PG-13. More adult topics are shared on Twitter. Many things on Twitter seem to be false. People definitely stretch the truth. I'm not sure what will happen with Elon Musk owning Twitter. I feel that we should protect our freedom of speech.

"How do you put someone down easy?"

Dear Valued Student,

It's never easy to let someone down but the best way is to be upfront about it and do it as soon as possible. If you drag it out and let the person think that everything's okay, you'll start to feel suffocated in the relationship and when you finally tell the person, it'll hurt even more. You should always let someone down in person, if you can't, over the phone is good too. (Pro tip: Don't do it over
