Why Hot Dogs Are A Great Food

(the only good food in existence.)

Hot dogs were believed to originate in two German towns. One is believed to be the original birthplace of the hot dog. Frankfurt claims the frankfurter was invented there over 500 years ago, in 1484. Some of the MANY pros of hot dogs is that they are versatile and easy to prepare and the protein in hot dogs is a complete protein, meaning it offers all the essential amino acids our bodies need. Hot dogs are also a great source of Vitamin B12. On the other hand one con of hot dogs is Just 50 grams, about one hot dog consumed daily increases colorectal cancer risk by 18%. Hot dogs are also an approved space food. From Memorial Day to Labor Day every year, Americans typically consume 7 billion hot dogs. That's 818 hot dogs eaten every second. U.S. soldiers around the world consumed 2.4 million hot dogs in 2007. The world record for the longest hot dog ever made at an astonishing 668 feet, 7.62 inches. This monumental feat of hot dog making was accomplished by Novex S.A. at the Expo Feria 2011 in Mariano Roque Alonso, Paraguay. In 2014, the Tokyo Dog food truck in Seattle, added the Juuni Ban hot dog worth $169 which holds the world record for the most expensive hot dog. One world record is held by Joey Chestnut who currently holds the title of hot dog-eating world champion after setting a new world record of 76 hot dogs and buns in 2021. So in conclusion hot dogs are tasty, and somewhat healthy but too many can be very bad.

I think singers are overrated. I think people make a big deal about singers because they make songs people love and they should get people to listen to their songs. It's everyone's dream to get famous. In addition, i feel like it has what everyone is talking about like what their favorite singers and rappers. Singers and rappers are quitting because people do not listen to them anymore because people are getting tired of them from listening to their music so much. They stop listening to the band so the band quit and find new job to get money. Also people listen to singers but the singers use auto tone to make they are songs better and their voices.

"My best friend is having boy problems I'm worried for her.

Dear concerned student,

The way to try and help your best friend through this rough time is let her know your willing to talk about what's ever on her mind ,ask her if there is anything you can do to help her ,if she refuses the help don't get upset or mad except it and give her some time to think about what's going on she might just need some time to herself to think about what she needs to do and her surroundings your best friend might not want to take your advice right away even though you might think it's the best choice for her, but sooner or later she may just stick by her side even at her worst to show how much you care and things may get easier for her.

"How do you put someone down easy?"

Dear Valued Student,

It's never easy to let someone down but the best way is to be upfront about it and do it as soon as possible. If you drag it out and let the person think that everything's okay, you'll start to feel suffocated in the relationship and when you finally tell the person, it'll hurt even more. You should always let someone down in person, if you can't, over the phone is good too. (Pro tip: Don't do it over text, it just adds salt to the wound.) Tell the person why you think it won't work out, there's nothing worse than a flimsy excuse. ("It's not you, it's me!") The longer you go without saying something, the more of a hassle it'll be letting that person down. Honestly, there's no easy way to let someone down, it's always going to be painful on both ends, but again: Do it in person and be honest with the person and yourself. This is the type of problem you can't ignore and hope it'll go away.

Wishing you the best of luck,
